

TERM 2, WEEK 8 UPDATE

Dear Parents and Carers

Last week, classes and parents had the pleasure of visiting the Year 5, Room 10 "Games Arcade".

Students have been designing and constructing an arcade game whilst refining their teamwork skills and creativity. I was most impressed with the standard of the games and also the thought that had gone into the prizes, the rule clarity and also the entertainment value. Amazing work Room 10 and Mr Hazel!

HAVE SUM FUN MATHS COMPETITION

Congratulations to our Year 3 to 6 Math Extension students who have been selected to represent our school in the Have Sum Fun maths competition. Over the next three weeks, members of each team will work together to complete a series of online problem-solving questions. Winners will be determined by accuracy and speed. We know these students will do our school proud.

READING LOG REMINDER

Pre-primary to Year 6 students have now been entering home reading into their Reading Logs for 14 weeks. Those who have consistently read at home four times a week will have achieved the 50 days milestone.

Please make sure your child's number of days home reading is updated before they bring their Reading Log to school for checking each Monday. When students have read and recorded 50 days of home reading in their Reading Log, they will be recognised with 5 Goldies.

PARENT HELP NEEDED – MOVING OUTDOOR FURNITURE

As the paving has been completed, we need to move the 5 outdoor tables again.

We had many helpers a couple of weeks ago to make this heavy task easier, and we would appreciate more help today. The more helpers we have, the lighter the load to move.

During running club (approx. 8:10am), we would appreciate parents helping us to move the large tables from the footpath/grass area onto the newly paved space.

PARENT WORKSHOP – READY FOR RESILIENCE

Aspiri Primary School are hosting a parent workshop 'Ready for Resilience' on the evening of Tuesday, 11 June and have extended the invitation to our school community

Ready for Resilience

Building skills... every child, every day

A good half of the art of living is resilience

Alain de Botton

Every parent wants their child to grow into a person who can cope with the ups and downs of life, achieve a life of purpose and generally experience more good times than bad.

Striving for a 'resilient' child is often talked about, but what that actually looks like, the skills it encompasses and how to grow them in daily life, gets less airplay.

However...it's what parents are looking for – and what makes a difference.

What would you include on your list of "Do's" and "Don't's" for building resilience? What are the foundational skills? And how can they be included in the hurly burly of daily family life?

These are just some of what you'll hear at our June 11th 2024 parent workshop: "Ready for Resilience": practical, sensible, do-able, focused skills and parenting tips about developing resilience.

Join Helen Davidson, an experienced child and adolescent mental health clinician of 35 years, co-author of early years and primary school social and emotional wellbeing curricula, kids' and parents' books, trainer of hundreds of educators and health professionals, international speaker and practicing child,

Helen Davidson (Occupational Therapist, Masters Counselling Family Therapist) brings 35 years' plus experience in child, adolescent and family mental health having worked nationally and internationally in children's mental health services, paediatric hospitals, community clinics and her own private practices. A founding co-Director of BEST Programs 4 Kids, an author, speaker, trainer and practising children's mental health clinician, Helen loves helping parents and families.
